LAWRENCE ANDERSON recently completed the Ph.D. at the University of California, Berkeley. He has taught instrumental and vocal music, theory and appreciation at the high school level. He is currently Supervisor of Music Education and Director of the Wind Ensemble at California State College in Rohnert Park.

LEON J. BLY is a graduate student in music education at the University of Miami. He received his B.A. degree from the College of William and Mary in 1966 and the M.M. from the University of Miami in 1972. He previously taught instrumental music in the public schools of Fredericksburg, Virginia.

KAREL HUSA, Professor of Composition and Director of the Cornell University Symphony and Chamber Orchestra, is equally renowned as conductor and composer. He studied in Prague, the city of his birth, and in Paris before coming to the United States in 1954. For his String Quartet No. 3, Husa was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in 1969.

WILHELM STEPHAN was born in Lüneburg, Lower Saxony. He has been actively engaged in all phases of German military music for most of his life. Following World War II and his return from Russian captivity, he conducted the Lower Saxony Symphony Orchestra and the Radio Orchestra of Hamburg. From June, 1958 to April, 1968 he was the Inspector of Music for the German Armed Forces.

EDGAR M. TURRENTINE, Professor of Music Education at the University of Minnesota, has contributed frequently to the Journal. We are deeply indebted to him and those who worked with him to provide this up-to-date index of our periodical. In this work he was assisted by CHARLES G. BOODY, Austin College, H. EUGENE KARJALA, Ball State University, and JANE TITTERINGTON, University of Minnesota.

DAVID WHITWELL, Professor of Music and Director of the Wind Ensemble at California State University in Northridge, is a recognized authority on early wind music. His frequent articles concerning wind compositions from all historical periods have done much to improve the quality of band programming in recent years.
